TECHNICAL REPORTS SELECTION CRITERIA

The scope of the DTIC® collection is extensive and covers classic military subjects and a broad spectrum of other disciplines. The collection is identified by major subject fields (categories) described in the Subject Categorization Guide for Defense Science and Technology, available from DTIC as AD-A172650 and at www.dtic.mil/dtic/subcatguide/

Reports are selected for various factors, including permanency of value of the material, completeness of data included, extent of activity reported, intended use and usefulness to DTIC users, and time coverage.

These criteria will undergo an annual review.

FORMATS ACCEPTED

1. Printed Reports (paper copy)
2. Microfiche ("second generation" diazo film copy and silver master) Format Type 1, 105 x 148mm, 24 x reduction, 98 frame (14 columns x 7 rows to conform with American National Standard ANSI PH5.9)

COPYRIGHT

DTIC accepts official works authored by government employees. These works are not copyrightable under USC Title 17, Sec 105 of the Copyright Law. Government employees, officials or organizations cannot assign or give rights to an association or commercial entity, such as a journal publisher, or assert rights for themselves.

DTIC accepts works produced under government contract. DoD contracts include standard clauses and definitions from the Defense Federal Acquisitions Regulation Supplement (DFARS) defining government license and use rights. See DFARS Subpart 227.4, Rights in Data and Copyrights, Subpart 227.71, Section 7103-4, Rights in Technical Data. License Rights and the clause at 252.227-7013, Rights in Technical Data - Noncommercial Items. Generally, if the work is fully funded by the government, it is treated as an official work. The government has an unlimited, paid-up, royalty free, world-wide, irrevocable license.

If the work is partially funded by the government, the government has government purpose rights; all other rights are granted the contractor. Government purpose rights allow the government to use, reproduce or distribute the work within government or for official purposes without other permissions, even if the work appears in a copyrighted compilation such as a conference proceeding or journal.

Under the guidance provided by Department of Defense Instruction (DoDI) 3200.14, Principles and Operational Parameters of the DoD Scientific and Technical Information Program, dated May 13, 1997, DoD authored or funded research findings published in journals, conference proceedings, or other copyrighted publications need to be submitted to DTIC for archiving and future dissemination to the Defense Community. Copies of the journal articles or reprints must accompany the SF298, Report Documentation Page.

DTIC will not accept SF298s without reports. SF298s received without reports will be referred to the Acquisitions Branch for follow up document acquisition.
